

Five choices that papers rarely state. Each is measured on our own runs and compared against the gap between the two leading methods, because that is the comparison a paper claims. Bars at or beyond the dashed line can account for a reported result on their own.